GM idles Spring Hill plant

■ General Motors plans to halt production at its Spring Hill, Tenn., assembly plant this week. The plant builds the Saturn Ion and Vue. In December, GM announced that the plant will close for a changeover to a new vehicle, still unannounced. Since the plant opened in July 1990, more than 3.8 million Saturn vehicles have been built there, about 3.3 million of them cars (Ion and S series) and about 500,000 Vue crossovers. Ion production will end; Vue production will move to GM's Ramos Arizpe, Mexico, plant next month.

■ North America truck production reached 2 million on Thursday, March 22, two days later than in 2006.
